Manifesto For A Fairer Future

School must be a safe place to learn in an inclusive environment.

We hope for a future where every young person is recognized and celebrated for their uniqueness. That all young people understand their rights and these rights are upheld by their school community. If there is discrimination within a school, schools must take action immediately and tackle issues.

We strive for equality for each and every young person.

We want everyone to have equal access to education. We believe all our schools must be accessible for all their pupils. Physical access is important, but access should be considered in all aspects of the school, from how we learn in the classroom to school events.

People with disabilities will have access to any support they need and all disabilities must be treated with respect.

We want everyone to be equal despite their race.

People should be accepted and viewed as individuals through their personality rather than appearance.

We want to learn about prejudice and about how race, class, gender, and other social identities impact how different groups experience oppression and discrimination. We want to consider our own roles in alleviating inequality.

A young person must never feel shame for expressing their beliefs. We believe that all schools must have access to a prayer room, and be accessible at any time, especially during religious holidays. We need more varied religious education that is representative of our pupil population.

We need to remove gender stereotypes immediately and appreciate pronouns. Everyone should feel comfortable expressing themselves and having their own identity. No one should feel embarrassed because of who they are. Love is love. People are people.

Diversify the curriculum. We want to see a curriculum that is evolving, adapting and pupil focused. We want to see opportunities for other aspects of learning, including apprenticeships.

We want schools to embrace all cultures. Schools should teach more languages so cultures can be expressed more. We want to see cultures celebrated around the school, in every department.

We want to see opportunities for young people of all backgrounds to be able to take part in school trips and activities. We want to see all schools offering free extra curricular activities and sports. Schools should provide financial support where needed to ensure equality of opportunity.

We want to see all young people having access to what they need as individuals for a better environment and education.

We think the amount of money someone has shouldn't dictate whether they can become successful or not.

School should be a safe place for everyone no matter their backgrounds. We should never be ashamed of our backgrounds as it shapes who you are.

We believe that by working together we can learn from the past, educate ourselves and create a better world. We offer this manifesto to everyone, we ask you to stand up for what is right.

Now is the time for action.

We are the school pupils of Glasgow.
As young people, we are the future.

Thank you to The Rights Respecting Group of Hyndland Secondary School and Glasgow's Senior Phase Pupil's Parliament for their insight, vision and wisdom.
