Community Justice Outcomes Improvement Plan - Presentation noted

9 There was heard and noted a presentation by Thomas Jackson, Head of Community Justice, Glasgow City Council outlining the Community Justice Outcomes Improvement Plan which aimed to reduce crime and and the number of victims in Glasgow, and which supported a fairer and more equal society where individuals' opportunities were improved and public resources were used effectively and efficiently, advising of

(1) statistical information in relation to re-offending in Scotland in terms of costs and overall convictions;

(2) the partnership working pathways undertaken by the Community Justice Partnership through its 5 strategic routes;

(3) the various points of intervention through each stage of the justice system and the savings from reduced reoffending against the direct cost to the public purse for each stage;

(4) the support agencies in place for each of the 4 improvement plans; and

(5) the support mechanisms in place for those about to be released from prison, in particular with Registered Social Landlords in order to protect tenancies where possible.
