Introduction to the Glasgow Aligning Local Policy Partnerships project - Presentation noted etc.

5 There was heard a presentation by Professor Shona Hilton, University of Glasgow providing an overview of the Glasgow Aligning Local Policy Partnership project and its aim to connect people, ideas, sectors and policies for inclusive sustainable futures, advising of

(1) the 2 phases of the project which had commenced on 18th April 2023 on receipt of funding from the Economic and Social Research Council for phase 1, and that a bid for phase 2 would be submitted by 19th September 2023;

(2) the 3 priority areas which had been identified and which overlapped with the grand challenges identified in Glasgow City Council's Strategic Plan to reduce poverty and inequalites in communities and to increase prosperity for all citizens;

(3) the phase 1 objectives which had been broken down over 5 stages and of the proposal for phase 2 of the project which would be delivered over 36 months commencing from December 2023; and

(4) the memebership of the project and the partner organisations involved, and of the stakeholder mapping for each of the 3 priority areas.

After consideration, the Partnership

(a) thanked Professor Hilton for her presentation; and

(b) agreed that this was an opportunity for other stakeholders to start engaging with the project leads.
